

Information Literacy Essential Questions

1. How can we know what we don't know?
2. What is the value of curiosity in research and in our everyday lives?
3. What factors shape how easy or difficult information is to find and use?
4. Why can't we freely access all information?
5. Why is the research process iterative?
6. How can we recognize authority?
7. Who is believed and who is questioned? Why?
8. Why is scholarly conversation relevant?
9. Why are some voices amplified and some voices silenced in scholarly conversations?
10. How is the creation process reflected in a final product?
11. How do we show that we value others' work in our own?
12. What rights should we have as information users, owners, and creators?
13. How do we decide how to share our work?